

MAJORITY SOCIALISTS WIN GERMAN ELECTION

May Dominate National Assembly Without Coalition--Very Few Spartacides Elected--Erzberger and Former Vice-Chancellor Returned.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, Jan. 21.—The Spartacides suffered almost a complete rout in Sunday's election for the national assembly.
Returns tabulated today showed that their candidates had been elected in only a few localities.
The majority Socialists (supporters of Chancellor Ebert's government) showed great strength but whether they will be able to dominate the national assembly without a coalition is not yet certain.
Surprising strength was shown by the Democrats and Centrists.
Forty million men and women voted.

Robert Emil Eichhorn, former 'Bolshevik' chief of police in Berlin, who fled after the collapse of the Spartacan uprising, was one of the four Independents elected to the national assembly in the voting in this city. The other three were Hugo Haase, Herr Lakaut and Herr Luesen.

The Spartacides secured a majority only in Leipzig and Halle.

The Centrist (clerical) party gained a majority in Bavaria but the government Socialists swept Munich, the capital, by a majority of 71,000.

Philipp Scheidemann, Richard Fischer, Wilhelm Pfannkuch, Robert Schmidt and Hugo Heilmann, all majority Socialists (adherents of Chancellor Ebert) were elected in Berlin.

Gustave Hartemann and Herr Naumann, Democrats, were returned from this city, also.

The German People's party united with the Centrist party and are believed to have obtained three seats in the Berlin parliament.

The following votes were polled in Berlin: Majority Socialists, 338,400; Democrats, 237,000; Centrists, 199,000; Independent Socialists, 143,000.

In Wurttemberg the Majority Socialists won seven seats and the Centrists four. Dr. Matthias Erzberger, state secretary in the Ebert government and chief of the German anti-entente envoys, was one of the Centrists elected. Dr. Erzberger was a member of the reichstag and was responsible for the famous "peace resolution" introduced in the reichstag in July, 1918. The other three successful Centrists were former Vice-Chancellor Payer, Herr Hausmann and Herr Goebner.

The Centrists' and Peasants' party gained two seats.

The Socialists showed up very strong in East Prussia. They gained an overwhelming majority at Hanover. The Socialists vote in this city was 212,000 against 26,000 votes cast by the Independents.

The Independent Socialists did not win a seat in Wurttemberg. The Democrats elected four candidates here.

Up to six o'clock Monday morning, 14,000 votes counted in Berlin were as follows:

Majority Socialists, 140,000; Independent Socialists, 104,000; non-Socialists, 19,000.

There was slight interest in the election in the province of Schleswig-Holstein, where the vote cast was small.

Steve Murphy, an Austrian, is in jail arrested last night by Sheriff Smith and Deputy Sheriff Seib. Murphy, a farm hand, had been charged with the house of George Schuchman at Lomontville, he having been formerly employed there. It is alleged that Murphy, in this city, had been in the winter, leaving the place in charge of his father. Monday night the father seeing a light near the house of the inside of the house, called the sheriff's office and Sheriff Smith and Deputy Sheriff Seib were sent to Lomontville in the sheriff's automobile. A search of the premises was made and Sheriff Murphy was found in the barn, placed under arrest and brought to jail.

DEPUTY DAVIS DIES SUDDENLY

One-Time 100-Yard Sprint Champion and Prominent Figure in Sporting World Expired at Kingston Hotel Breakfast Table.

Deputy Davis, who over forty years ago held the record of being the fastest 100-yard runner in the world, died suddenly this morning while seated at the breakfast table at the Kingston Hotel, Crown street, where he boarded. He was a son of the late Dr. William B. Davis, who resided at the corner of Clinton avenue and St. James street, the house being torn down several years ago. Mr. Davis was about 75 years of age. A sister married Luther E. Schoonmaker, who had a summer home in Stone Ridge, and for many years was a leading wholesale shoe dealer in New York. For a number of years Mr. Davis resided in Connecticut and later spent a score of years in the west. About five years ago he came back to Kingston, spending the winters in this city and the summers at Stamford, N. Y. He was unmarried. Mr. Davis was an ardent lover of sports, being an expert hunter, fisherman, and was referee in big billiard matches in New York city, when Schaeffer, Slosson, Vignaux and other famous experts played matches for big stakes.

MRS. STAHLMAN HAD BOTH LEGS BROKEN

When Hit by Auto Driven by Chauncey Snyder on Albany Avenue Early Monday Evening—She is in City Hospital.

Mrs. Johanna Stahlman of Albany avenue is in Kingston City Hospital with both legs broken, besides other injuries, sustained early Monday evening when she was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Chauncey Snyder. This morning her condition was reported as favorable as could be expected.

The accident occurred about 6:25 o'clock that evening, and later in the evening Mr. Snyder called at police headquarters and gave his version of the accident. According to his story Mrs. Stahlman was walking out of the Saugerties road near the Stoddard farm with three young girls. The girls left the middle of the road and went to the right after Snyder had blown his horn, while Mrs. Stahlman started for the left side of the road, and then came back toward the center. She was evidently confused.

Snyder said that he ran his car into a tree purposely to avoid hitting her. The auto struck the woman, however, before it hit the tree.

The auto was badly wrecked, but Snyder escaped without injuries.

When word of the accident reached police headquarters, the ambulance rushed to the scene and conveyed Mrs. Stahlman to the hospital where she is under the care of Dr. Daniel Connolly. She is about 40 years of age and resides opposite the Mountain View house, with her husband and young daughter. Mrs. Stahlman is employed by William Shafer of Albany avenue, and was on her way home when struck.

Private Henry Munch, of the Ambulance Corps, is reported to have landed in New York. Private Munch was employed as stereotypist in The Freeman office prior to being inducted into the service.

Private Harry Souders, who was seriously wounded on the Ypres front last summer, is spending another sick leave from the Greenbush Hospital, New York city, with his sister, Mrs. H. L. Hoag, on Washington avenue, this city. Private Souders, it will be remembered, has been wounded twenty-two times and gassed three times in action. One of his wounds made necessary the amputation of his left arm just below the elbow.

Samuel McIntyre, formerly of this city, and before entering the service in Bridgeport, Conn., has received his honorable discharge from the army and is spending a short time in this city. McIntyre participated in three of the hardest battles of the war without receiving a scar and only recently returned to this country with a division of overseas forces. He entered the service in Bridgeport and went overseas last spring with a Connecticut regiment.

WILSON'S BIG FOOD BILL IN DANGER

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 21.—President Wilson's $100,000,000 bill to provide food for Europe was in a critical position in the senate today. Hurried polls were made by administration leaders to determine whether to send the measure to a vote today.

Meanwhile, the hearings before the committee on the activities continued and leaders of the opposition said openly that they hoped to produce evidence before the committee that militates against the food bill.

Already the charge has been made in the senate that a large portion of the $100,000,000 fund is to be used to take up huge supplies of pork products now held in storage by the packers. The packers otherwise would be compelled to throw these supplies on the American market, with a loss estimated at from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Defending the packers, Senator Sherman, of Illinois, said they entered a gentlemen's agreement with the government when the minimum price for pork was set by the food administration as a means of stimulating production—that they should not suffer by reason of abiding by the set price.

LOAN ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Homeowners' Co-operative Savings and Loan Association, held on Monday evening, the following officers and directors were elected: President, Dr. A. H. Mamberti; vice president, James Tongue; secretary, Irvin McCausland; treasurer, Charles R. O'Connor; directors, Remsen E. DuBois, William R. Bennett, Jacob Owen; attorney, Frederick Stephan, Jr.; auditors, Alfred W. Tongue, Munroe Burger.

The annual report shows an increase of over $25,000 in assets, and earnings amounted to $20,452.39, from which the directors have declared a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. The report also shows that the association purchased $19,000 of the bonds of the third and fourth Liberty loans.

Few persons outside of the membership of the association realize the magnitude of the co-operative savings and loan movement. In the state of New York alone there are two hundred and fifty associations with aggregate assets of over eighty million dollars. These associations are one of the best mediums for the saving of money and the development of the habit of thrift, because they compel the saving to be done methodically and systematically, and the interest returns, or dividends, are large, considering the absolute security.

Several years ago the Homeowners' adopted the plan of opening a new series of shares every six months, instead of one each year, as has been done up to that time. The popularity of the change has been shown by the fact that as many shares have been subscribed in each of the semi-annual series as were formerly subscribed in the annual series. The opening date for the next series is the first Monday in February and subscriptions are being received now at the office of the association, No. 23 Broadway.

ICE PROSPECTS ON UPPER RIVER

The Catskill Mail is optimistic regarding the ice harvest on the upper Hudson river and on Monday stated that the thermometers in that section marked from 15 to 20 degrees early that morning. That is freezing weather and ice began making again Sunday night, both on the river and the Catskill creek. It did not make rapidly or much, but observers who noted the clear sky and brilliant display of constellations at midnight predicted a good ice-making spell of weather.

The ice that formed week before last on the upper Hudson did not waste much during the mild weather of last week. It probably froze enough during the nights to compensate for any small losses during the day. The situation at Catskill and above, all along the Hudson river, is favorable to active ice cutting if the ice gains only a little each night for a few days.

It was reported that the river was lower in better condition for good ice. The water was entirely frozen from bottom to top when the fields were covered with a coating of clear snow, and there has been no break-up to disturb this condition.

Between Kingston and Poughkeepsie the river is open, due to the fact that the summer Poughkeepsie dam is still running. The ice in the river above the dam of the ferry house and is fast.

RATIFICATION UP IN ALBANY TODAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21.—The last stand of the "wets" in New York state is being made this afternoon at a hearing on the ratification of the federal prohibition amendment before joint legislative committee. Plans of the leaders call for meetings of the committee after the hearing to vote out the resolution so it may be before the legislature in time for final votes by the house, Thursday. No opposition is expected in committee to voting the measure out. There are said to be at least 84 votes in favor of ratification in the assembly. The senate will bring a closer lineup and "dry" workers were laboring with doubtful senators today. They expect the measure to pass in the senate.

Wayne E. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League; Mrs. Ella A. Roole, state president of the W. C. T. U., and Mrs. Ida E. Sammis, Republican assembly woman from Suffolk, will speak for the ratification. William H. Hirsch, counsel for the brewers, will direct the forces opposed to ratification. The speakers for the "wets" have not been announced.

Representatives of the peace conference and admission of Russia into a league of nations.
2—Treatment of the Russian people.
3—Possibility of armed intervention against the Bolsheviks, enabling the people to elect a constituent assembly through legal actions.
4—Consideration of the demands by representatives of the non-Bolshevik governments in Russia.
5—Treatment of the Bolshevik menace as to the rest of Europe.
6—Possibility of fighting Bolshevikism through adding the states opposing the Bolsheviks (perhaps even Germany) by giving aid in the way of food and supplies and credit.
7—Ceasing to oppose the Bolsheviks by withdrawing the American, British and French troops, and agreeing to a working arrangement to help the country from its troubles without recognizing the Bolshevik regime, but at the same time requiring the Bolsheviks to cease attacking friendly Russians and abandon their terrorism. At the same time, the Allies would facilitate Russian transportation and help Russian industrialism to its feet. The seventh clause was an alternative one.

There is a split of opinion among the delegates of the big five. It is reported, over the questions of Russian representation at the peace conference, admission of Russia to a league of nations and the proposal to cease opposing the Bolsheviks by force of arms.

France, in particular, is opposed to the cessation of hostilities against the Bolsheviks.

In view of this divergence of opinion a middle course may be chosen. The big five has decided to give the utmost aid to international labor and already a special committee has been arranged to study working hours, labor conditions and problems of a kindred nature. Wages are so complicated from a national standpoint that doubt is expressed if any international agreement could be established on this matter. It is hoped, however, that standards may be set up for each country thus producing a general uniformity.

Gustav Aden, president of Switzerland, arrived in Paris today. During his stay here he will confer with President Wilson.

LETTERS OF INTEREST

From Stone Ridge Woman in England and the Authoress Marie Corelli.

Mrs. Francis Leggett, since making her home at Stone Ridge, has made herself so much a part of the life and vital activities of Ulster Co. that she came to be thought of as one of its people and her many friends will be interested to know that Miss Haldane has just received a letter, written by her at the Ritz Hotel, Piccadilly, London, where she has been during the winter. Accompanying this letter was also one from Marie Corelli, the world famous authoress, who lives at Halls Croft, Stratford-on-Avon, which is the property of Mrs. Leggett. This charming place is a part of the former Shakespeare property.

Mrs. Leggett's letter was written on December 26th, and told of the delightful Christmas which she had just spent. Mrs. Leggett states at the close of her letter that she has just been invited to meet the Wilsons. While in England, Mrs. Leggett will make a careful study of the Woman's Land Army movement, of which she is the efficient and enterprising as well as enthusiastic chairman for Ulster county.

The letter from Marie Corelli, Mrs. Leggett's friend and neighbor at Stratford-on-Avon, to which place, she wrote she was about to go, was as follows:

Mason Croft, Stratford-on-Avon, Dec. 22, 1918.

My Dear Mrs. Leggett:—I wonder if this letter will find you. It is sent to wish you a happy Christmas and a happy New Year, and to tell you we would love to have you back among us. You will, perhaps have heard of my "American Officers" here. We have forty officers and men here for Christmas week, and Miss— and I are "full up" to our eyes and ears planning things for their entertainment. I think you will say the "Hostel" is charming when you see it.

How distressing to have lost our kind friend, Dr. Page. And I have seen scarce a decent memoir of him in any of our "highbrow" journals. It seems so very ungrateful.

We do hope "The Croft" may soon twinkle lights from every window for the return of its genial mistress. (Mrs. Leggett.)

I enclose an article of mine on President Wilson, written before we were quite certain he would visit England. Affectionately yours, (Signed) MARIE CORELLI.

The article of which she speaks, appeared in the Pall Mall Gazette of December 15th, and was entitled, "A Significant Arrival, the Dawn of a New Day." After calling attention to the president's strength of character in breaking the fixed rule as to visiting a foreign country in office, and deploring the political situation in England at a time when such a visit is possible, Marie Corelli went on to pay a most enthusiastic tribute to President Wilson. While appreciating the various bonds of unity between the American and the French, the writer further expressed the hope that a like understanding might come between the English and Americans, saying, "We are beginning to know our Transatlantic cousins much better than we did before the war. We are meeting, not so much their millionaires but their men. And fine, brave men they are, strong yet gentle, full of courtesy to women and chivalry to all. Their president may well be proud to belong to the race."

After reading this article it would be interesting to hear what Marie Corelli would have to say now, since President and Mrs. Wilson have made their London visit.

WOMEN'S LAND ARMY

To Have Big Meeting in N. Y.—Believe Work Necessary This Spring.

So much interest was shown in Ulster county this past summer and fall regarding the woman's land army work and future, that the farmers and women of our county will be especially interested in learning about the big meeting to be held in New York city on Tuesday, January 28, and Wednesday, January 29. Invitations to this meeting, which is a state meeting, have been received not only by the officers of the Ulster county branch of this body, but by women known to be interested in the movement, who are not officers or even members.

In mentioning the title, even, of this organization, the question will arise in many minds as to whether or no there will be the need for the women to continue their work on the land this coming season, with so many men released from military service. The industrial boards of every sort, and especially those having to do with our returning soldiers and sailors complain that the great majority of the returning men do not want to go back to the farms, and further complain that without sufficient farm labor, our industrial problems for the coming year will be indeed serious. That shows of itself that the women's land army has still a big work to do, and judging from its efficiency last year, its willingness to continue to serve the country in this way will be warmly greeted throughout the agricultural sections of our country, and especially on the farms of New York state.

The New York state meeting will be held in the Astor Hotel. The first business session will occur on Tuesday morning, January 28, at 10 o'clock. Following this business session, with various reports, etc., including an address of welcome by the president, Mrs. Thomas F. Burgess, and her first annual report as president of the state board of directors, there will be two important addresses. Mrs. Margaretta Neale, chief woman's division U. S. Employment Service, will speak on "Our Affiliation with the U. S. Employment Service," and George W. Kitchner, director of the N. Y. State Employment Service will also give an address.

Following the adjournment for luncheon, the afternoon session will be held from 2 to 5 p. m. In addition to reports from two important committees on Mrs. Benjamin Munn will speak on "Recitation for Land Army Girls," and an address will be given by Dr. Wilcox, chief of the Bureau of Farm Managers of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

Dinner will be served for delegates and guests at 7 p. m., and for the remainder of the evening there will be either other noted speakers or a theater party arranged.

The Wednesday morning session from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. will include on its program, in addition to committee reports, three minute reports by county chairmen, and three minute reports by field secretaries. Miss Pauline Goldmark, Research Secretary of the Consumers' League, will head a discussion of "Standards Including Wages, Sanitary Conditions and Hours."

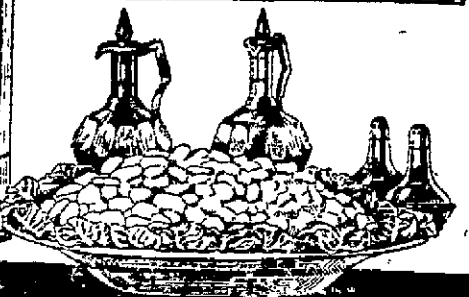

The final informal luncheon will take place from 1 to 2 p. m. The polls will be open for elections from 12 m. to 2-30 p. m.

The great Caruso plays a double role, one minute he is a famous opera tenor, the next he is a poor sculptor.

In the second character he falls in love with his model—some model too—and believe us Enrico makes love to her as he would to some great opera belle.

You'd have to pay three dollars to see Caruso at the Metropolitan—See him here for 15 cents.

INQUEST BEGUN IN GRENADE EXPLOSION

Witnesses Testify As to Manner of Occurrence of Blast Which Resulted in Death of Lena Tressalona, O'Brien Wells, and Alice Osborne at Port Ewen.

Coroner E. A. Kelly began his investigation into the cause of the deaths of Lena Tressalona, O'Brien Wells, and Alice Osborne employed at the plant of the American Grenada Loading Company, at Port Ewen, at the time of the explosion, on November 8th. The examination was conducted by Assistant District Attorney DePuy Hasbrouck who questioned the witnesses, Hon. P. C. Dugan, of Albany, was present, representing the Travelers' Accident Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., John G. Van Allen and Andrew J. Cook, attorneys for the company, were also interested in the testimony. The witnesses were Dr. Ross, James Cochran, George Southard, George Madden, Joseph Ennis, At 12:30 noon a recess was taken until 2 p. m.

Dr. Ross, the first witness called testified the cause of death was shock due to burns. The second witness called was James Cochran, chief government inspector of the plant. Mr. Cochran stated that he was in charge of government inspection of the plant and that every possible precaution was taken in the construction and maintenance of the building and equipments, including equipment for the safety of the employees. The conveyor, a moving mechanism for the conveyance of trays containing parts for the grenades, was operated by electrical power and could not be stopped except by the switch located in Compartment No. 1 of the building in which the explosion took place and ran at a fixed speed of 6 feet a minute.

The plant was inspected about every week or two by men representing liability companies and the entire plant was inspected by these men within one week prior to the explosion and no complaints entered. Mr. Cochran stated that it was a part of his duties as a government inspector to watch for the safety of the employees.

To his knowledge, Mr. Cochran stated that the two inspectors on duty at the time of the explosion were George Ennis and a man by the name of DuBois.

Joseph Southard of 11 Oak Street, constructor was the third witness called. He began work with the American Grenada Loading Company on March 1, last. Constructed bouchon assembling unit and had charge of construction and installation of machinery except the electrical part. Joseph McNelis installed the electric motors.

Southard said that inspection occurred about once a week and he always accompanied the inspector. He accompanied him on his rounds the last time of inspection before the explosion.

So far as he, Southard, knew, no complaint was made by liability inspectors.

The fourth witness called was George Madden of Arlington Place. He was employed at the Port Ewen plant on August 23, 1918, as timekeeper. Madden stated that there were 72 at work in the bouchon room at the time of the explosion.

George W. Ennis called and said he resided at 407 Washington avenue, was an inspector employed at the plant on November 8th, being an assistant to Mr. Cochran. Did not know DuBois was an inspector. Had been employed two days inspecting bouchons; never did work at it before going to work there. Was instructed by Mr. Tremper to inspect. Was testing them all day in field until 5 o'clock and then returned to the plant for conveyance to hospital. Was treated by Dr. Ross. Took trays off conveyor, could reach the distance. Had packed in that room but never inspected. Had inspected about 18 trays before the explosion. Took about a couple of seconds to inspect a tray of bouchons. Did not know name of people there when he came in after 5 o'clock. Did not chipping. Was about 5:20 when he went to work in the room; was about the center of the floor. A breeze struck him, did not know whether it was warm or cold; was a stiff breeze; saw fire on south side of the building. Did not remember anything until he got in the fields. Did not know who shouted "run," but it came from the same room. Went out south side of building. Heard an explosion just as he went out with the siding. This was after he felt the breeze. Saw the fire before the siding went out.

KEEP "FAT FACTORY" DRY.

Shelter and Dry Bedding Big Factors in Marketing Hogs.

It pays to provide shelter and dry bedding for the hogs. The animal husbandry workers at the New York state college of agriculture estimate that ten barrels of corn fed to fattening hogs in dry, comfortable quarters will produce as large a gain in weight as will twenty barrels fed to the hogs in cold, mud and silt.

Why this is true is not hard to see, think the college workers. If the hogs are cold and uncomfortable a larger proportion of the food consumed will have to be used for maintaining body heat and there will be less to be converted into fat. There is danger also that they will not be able to consume enough food under such unfavorable conditions even to maintain the body temperature and an actual loss in fat will result.

Farmers who give the matter thought will be able to provide adequate shelter and dry bedding for the hogs.

N. Y. WILL RATIFY PROHIBITION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21.—New York state will ratify the federal prohibition amendment before the end of next week. This was admitted by legislative leaders today as the "wet" and "dry" met for what is likely to be the last legislative hearing on the ratification question. Prohibitionists have apparently won their fight in the senate where it is admitted they have won enough votes to pass the ratification resolution.

Senator J. Henry Walters, Republican leader of the senate, announced this afternoon that at the request of twenty senators he had called a party caucus on the resolution Monday night. The caucus is likely to result in binding at least twenty-seven of the twenty-nine Republicans to favor the resolution.

WANT TROOPS TO LEAVE IRELAND

Telegraph to The Freeman.
Dublin, Jan. 21.—Formal request will be made to the British government to withdraw troops from Ireland. It was announced here today by Liam O'Riordan, M. P. of Cork, just before the opening of the Sinn Féin parliament.

Mr. O'Riordan was elected to parliament on the Sinn Féin ticket in the last election.
So great was the rush for tickets for the last session of the Sinn Féin parliament that the authorities had to issue them.

The British government has abolished the order against public assembly in Ireland. It is said that it will not interfere with the Sinn Féin parliament unless there is a flagrant breach of the law.

Mr. O'Riordan made the following statement:
"Formal request will be made to the British government to withdraw the troops from Ireland. We feel sure that the new government (Sinn Féin) will have all of the moral support of the country as George Washington and his government had after the Declaration of American Independence."

THE ELKS IN WARTIME

A Review of Their Many Activities in Behalf of Soldiers.
There has probably never been a more evident manifestation of eagerness to serve and be of some use to their country as was made when America first entered the war by the organizations and fraternal orders of the United States, who were seized with the desire to do their part and the sum of their efforts that grew from that impulse was tremendous. In some cases particularly noticeable in the work of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the accomplishments and results have been a large asset in handling the relief work of the war.

Not satisfied with giving fifty thousand of their members as soldiers for the army, the Elks in June, 1917, appointed the Elks' war relief commission, headed by John K. Tener, former governor of the state of Pennsylvania, and a staff of able assistants. The commission immediately got busy on war work and in July, one month after organizing, reported to the grand lodge that the first thing to be done was the establishing of base hospital units, to be equipped by the Elks and operated by the war department. At once the grand lodge voted a million dollars and authorized the commission to go ahead. The Elks wanted to give help where it was most needed, tying no strings to the commission. It was well made plain by the Elks that if one million was not sufficient to cover the work another million could be obtained for the asking, and as a matter of fact, the first million has not been spent yet, but if the work of the present construction period requires it any part of another million may be had at once.

The University of Virginia and the University of Oregon both had organized hospital units and the Elks and the Universities got together in the equipment of the units. The Elks provided the equipment at a total cost of $120,000, $60,000 being appropriated to each unit and both hospitals have accomplished splendid work in France. The Elks at the same time are always ready to give the needy a helping hand were preoccupied with the problem of the men who were returning from France blind and crippled and were among the first organizations who determined that, so far as it lay in their power to prevent it, no man blinded or crippled in this war should ever need charity.

On Parker Hill, in Boston, there stands today the Elks U. S. A. Reconstruction Hospital, the first reconstruction hospital planned after America entered the war. It has three hundred and fifty beds, and no more perfect institution of its type can be found anywhere in the world. The Elks have nothing to do with its operation, they simply built and equipped the hospital. They worked themselves and they worked with the medical department of the army, in finding out just what was needed, furnishing every cent of the cost of nearly $300,000.

These were the big, centralized contributions of the Elks to the winning of the war, but there were others, of somewhat similar character. The Salvation Army is not rich, but they accomplished wonderful

HOW TO SAVE ON SHOES

"Out of curiosity I tried a pair of Neolin Soles," writes W. P. Macartney of St. Louis, "and today, after five months of hard service I fail to notice any real signs of wear on them."
This statement points the way to real economy in shoes. What your shoes cost by the wear depends largely on how the soles wear and Neolin Soles do wear a very long time. Moreover, they are exceedingly comfortable and waterproof—scientifically made to be exactly what soles should be and so worn now by millions.
They are available everywhere on new shoes and for re-soles. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

things in the first year of the war without a public appeal for money. They went to work without any talk and did things worth while and did not keep dunning the public for funds. The Elks are responsible in a great measure. Realizing the work that the Salvation Army were doing the Elks co-operated with them in furnishing the funds for the furthering of their work among the dough-boys in the front lines under fire.

In the spring of 1918 when the Salvation Army needed five million dollars and simply had to make a drive to get it, the Elks took complete charge of the campaign in Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Kansas City and St. Louis. They left the Salvation Army people, who really had enough to do with their regular work, free, and guaranteed the money which they did deliver to the Salvation Army as they promised, receiving great praise for their work from Colonel W. A. McIntyre, who is the head of the army's New York office.

It is not a new thing for the Elks to turn in and help in an emergency. Since the disaster in San Francisco in 1906 the Elks have always taken the initiative in helping and raising funds for all national emergencies as they arise. Christmas is another time of giving for the Elks, when poor families are reached and cheered with Christmas baskets from the local lodges.

January White Sale

Amidst what must be to many a bewildering mass of advertising claims and counter claims; we offer the following simple and exact facts of this JANUARY SALE OF WHITE.

- 1—The stocks offered for sale here are regular and come from our regular manufacturers only ["regular" is a trade term for clean, standard, merchandise, every garment of unvarying excellence in design, size and finish.]
- 2—Our manufacturers do not cater to the low-end market and their garments are never seen there. "Low-end market" is a trade term for cut-price merchandise, oftentimes skimmed in yardage and workmanship and made "at a price" to sell "at a price".
- 3—The prices at which we are able to sell these fine stocks average one-third loss and represent business co-operation between these manufacturers and their year in and year out customers; the orders of the one keeping the factory busy in what would otherwise be a dull period and on the other hand the price concessions making possible these third-less prices, bringing great opportunities to you and helping to keep this section busy every January.
